TWO EASY AND CONVENIENT WAYS TO TEACH YOUR TEAM CPR

On-site Training – Want a more traditional interactive on-site session? This classroom-style training is a great solution for traditional-style "group" trainings. Our instructors and content always get high praise. We can come to your facility.

Blended Learning – Minimize downtime for your team. Students take an online course. When successfully completed, an instructor will evaluate the student's skill with a "skills test". Students learn anywhere, on any device, on their schedule.

EARLY CPR AND DEFIBRILLATION SAVES LIVES

Sudden Cardiac Arrest (SCA) is not a heart attack. It is a condition where the heart abruptly and unexpectedly ceases to function. SCA is an "electrical problem" caused by Ventricular Fibrillation, a heart rhythm disorder. In SCA, the heart is no longer able to pump blood to the rest of the body.

RESPIRATOR QUALITATIVE FIT TESTING AND MEDICAL EVALUATIONS

QUALITATIVE FIT TESTING

A qualitative fit test is often used and sufficient in many situations, particularly for half-face respirators, because it is a simple, cost-effective, and portable method that relies on the wearer's sensory detection (taste, smell, or irritant) to detect leaks. It is a pass/fail test and does not provide a numerical measurement of fit, making it suitable for many workplaces where a fit factor of 100 or less is acceptable.

RESPIRATOR MEDICAL EVALUATION QUESTIONNAIRE

Respirator Medical Evaluations Questionnaires (RMEQ) are assessments conducted to ensure that workers can safely wear and use respirators when exposed to hazardous airborne contaminants in the workplace. RMEQs are offered in both English and Spanish and can be completed online or on paper.

Key aspects of respirator medical evaluations include:

- Determining an individual's medical fitness and physical ability to wear a respirator safely.
- Healthcare professionals reviewing the employee's medical history and questionnaire responses.
- Upon completion of the questionnaire review, healthcare professionals certify whether the employee is fit to wear a respirator.
